

Hello Praying Friends.

Mrs. Coach Mo, here – aka, “Kelly”. ☺

Morris left last evening on a road trip for which we covet your prayers. He flew into Atlanta where he will spend a couple days meeting with teams / coaches / friends in the area as well as visiting TNT Broadcasting to connect with Ernie Johnson and, hopefully, Shaquille O’Neal, about their participation in our Final Four events in New Orleans at the very end of March.

He will then drive to Orlando with a friend for the NBA All-Star weekend where he will participate in some festivities including an AIA-sponsored breakfast that honors men of character and faith, presents the vision of AIA and proclaims the gospel of Jesus Christ. The award recipients are Pat Williams, Orlando Magic (Jerry Colangelo Award) and David Robinson, former San Antonio Spur (Bobby Jones Award). In addition, he will seek to network with and minister to various NBA players and their “people”.

After the weekend, he will have a short visit in the Chattanooga area with some teams / coaches / friends before flying home in the middle of next week.

Unfortunately, Morris was feeling a bit “under the weather” when he left yesterday. Fortunately, he was able to get a Z-Pack antibiotic before he left.

Please pray that...

- the antibiotic will work swiftly and he will be at full strength for the rigorous days in front of him.
- God will order his steps, fill him with wisdom, sharpen his spirit to listen well and saturate his speech with grace and truth as he visits with many.
- doors will open to connect with some high profile, in demand people, who will discern his pure motivation to know them, love them, and invest in them for the sake of the gospel (ie. Jeremy Linn).

THANK YOU.

Kelly