

Hitting the Ground Running!

Well, today wraps up my first week working at the Operation Mobilization USA headquarters. So far, it's been great! I've never felt more welcomed than I have here, and I've never been more sure of being where God wants me to be. I know that I've mentioned a key part of support raising and going into missions has been me waiting on God's timing. Well, I saw God's timing when I started work on Monday when my supervisor told me that this is their busiest time. I don't think it's a coincidence that I came right in the middle of it. He wasn't joking. I came in the midst of several key projects for my team and the entire US office. So, I plunged in and hit the ground running. By the end of Monday, I had literature for two key upcoming events that I was editing and working on with our graphic designer. Wow!!!!

Currently, I just finished an e-blast, highlighting our new app, OM 360. Needless to say, I've been busy ☹️📧 My apartment is almost unpacked, and I'm working on settling into Georgia and finding my way around Tyrone. Thank you so much for all each one of you has done to get me here. Also, be on the lookout for a revamped newsletter with pictures of what is happening here. I'm going to be designing and launching a brand new one soon. I hope and pray that each one of you is doing well and seeing God's blessings in your lives. Know that you all are in my prayers. Take care and God bless!
